OREGON

HISTORY This Remedy is composed of the active principle of the Unk Weed, Eng.—Thasplum Cordatum Originis, Lat.—Indigenous to Oregon. Grows most abundantly and perfectly in Washington Co. PROPERTIES, Etc. It contains an ACTIVE VOLATILE Principle, extracted by Ether, and a bitter TONIS Principle, soluble in Alcohol.

Medical Properties and Uses,

It is the most sure and speedy cure for Rheumatism, Rheumatic Gout and Rheumatic Pains of all kinds that was ever introduced in the Materia Medica. THE UNK WEEN REMEDY, as prepared by us, in consequence of the existing bitter principle, possesses the necessary virtue of being a

POWERFUL TONIC,

Promoting the Appetite and Invigorating the whole Digestive Apparatus, thus Building ap and Strengthening the system, while at the same time the volatile principle, being absorbed in the blood, acts specifically on the Dhancetic Poison removing it from the circumstants. theumatic Poison, removing it from the cirulation and system.

There are a few remedies known to the Medical Profession which will remove the heumatic Poison from the blood, but whose action is so powerful in depressing the system of the already enfecbled Rheumatic tient, that their use has to be abandoned before specific effects are obtainable, hence the want of success in treating this prevalent, and in consequence heretofore incurable disease. Unlike these Medicines, already known, the

though producing as powerful and as active effects on the blood and system in removing the Rheumatic Poison, also possesses a strong Tonic and recuperating element which admits of its continued use even by the mest Delicate and debilitated. Thus we have the combination for the first time of these Two Necessary Elements in one remedy, which accounts for its Superior and never-b

The Daily Standard. Tuesday, March 19, 1872.

nd of the Crisis The very large number of people who filled the gallery and aisles of the Legislative Chamber yesterday afternoon, before the Speaker took his seat, was an indication of the state of public feeling on the question which had arisen in the House to increase the indemnity to members for their services, from $5 per diem to $8, and travelling expenses from fifteen to twenty-five cents per mile. No event that transfired during the great American rebellion, or the late French war, laden as the telegraph wires and the newspapers of the day were with startling occurrences, gave rise to anything approaching the interest and excitement which pervaded all classes of this community in reference to that matter. What course the House would pursue in the premises when it should meet on Monday, was canvassed at almost every street corner with an eagerness which showed that the question at issue was one of more than ordinary importance. Many feared that those members who had espoused the cause of an increased indemnity, and who commanded a large majority in the House, would enforce their demands upon the Government even to the length of ousting the Cabinet by a direct vote UPHOLSTERY GOODS, of want of confidence if they declined to comply with their wish on the subject, thereby obstructing the legislation of the country, and throwing back public works and the adoption of those measures of public utility which up to this time bad engaged the attention of the Legislature, for at least a twelvemonth to come. We confess we did not participate in those fears. We fully believed that upon mature reflection hon, members would be prepared to sacrifice their own private views and feelings in a matter of Best Quality Only a purely personal nature rather than jeopardize the interests of the country by FOR SALE AT SPROAT & CO'S obstructing or defeating such measures as the repeal of the Civil List Act, the reand other measures which the country has called for, but which, were they to force the Cabinet to a dernier resort, might result in a dissolution of the House and an indefinite postponement or possi ble defeat of some, at least, of the measures above referred to. We are gratified to know that we were not mistaken in the estimate we formed of the good judgment and patriotic self-denial of the members of the House. They have taken the NEW WESTMINSTER AND YALE, wise and the mauly course. They have said we will postpone the question for the present, and after baving disposed of the work of the session we shall renew the subject mound of the Government then decline to accede to our request we shall use the power nich we possess as the representatives of the people of voting them out of of-fice and putting others in their places who will bow to the decisions of a major ity of the Legislature. So far as the present session is concerned, the question is finally settled, and cannot be again entertained; but in it we think we see involved the early fate of the Admiristration. If the threats of the majority of the House mean all they are intended to convey, and the Government have made up their minds to adhere to the course they have taken upon this question, but one result can possibly follow. and that is a vote of want of confidence in the Government and the formation of a new Administration or a dissolution of the present House and an appeal to the people upon the issue raised. If the members feel assured that their constituents will endorse their conduct in this matter, they will not hesitate to risk the ordeal of a new election, and if upon that issue they are re-elected, all objections to an increase of indemnity will thereby be removed. In the opposition given to this proposition we have been actuated by a sincere desire to see the principles of Responsible Government carried out in their integrity, so that hereafter the enemies of that system should not have it in their power to point to one of the first acts of the Legislature and say that those who for years had clamored for responsible institutions and an economical administration of the affairs of the country had taken the earliest opportunity afforded them of dipping their fingers into the public chest for purposes of personal aggrandizement. Our great regret is, that gentlemen belonging to that party with which we claim to be identified, and in whose political success we have always taken a warm interest, should bave allowed themselves to be inveigled into any such difficulty. So far as they are concerned, we believe they acted in good faith and did what they honestly believed to be right and proper; and although we felt it to be our duty as a public journalist to disagree with them, and to express our disapprobation in somewhat strong terms, we nevertheless have no less confidence in their political integrity now than we had before the question of indem-nity was mooted. Our aim was to save them from falling into an error that might on a future occasion beturned to account against them, and that by some of the very men who had secretly encouraged them in what they did. It was not without some show of did. It was not without some show of reason that Mr. Armstrong charged the Government with having led members to believe that they could constitutionally bring the question before the House and deal with it in the manner proposed, and that if a wrong had been done the Ministry were responsible for it. The upshot of the matter is this: The House have manifested a spirit of forbearance and constitute carry forward the work and desire to carry forward the work occupy the very equivocal position of being retained in their positions, not as possessing the confidence of the House, but by the sufferance of a large majority of the members, who, for the time being, deem it inexpedient to turn them out of

PROVINCIAL ASSEMBLY.

Monday, March 18, 1872. The House met at 2 o'clock, p. m. Pre-anxious to witness the next move with

THE MEMBERS' INDEMNITY.

Mr. Armstrong rose to a question of privilege. On the 8th of March he gave notice he would move the House into Committee o consider the expediency of amending the Constitution Act, for the purpose of increasing the indemnity of members of the House. On the 12th he moved the suspension of the rules and orders to adopt a resolution. The Ministry gave the House to understand that would support the measure, and led them to believe it from the very first, and it was this that brought them, the two parties in o the unfortunate position in which they were now placed. Had any one of the Ministry opposed the measure or said it could not be brought forward, it would have been sufficient; had they at any time given the House to understand this, they, the House, would not now be in the present awkward position. The Hon. Attorney General gave no constitu tional reason for his course, but simply said he could not advise the Governor to send down a measure to increase the indemnity. The members of the House stood in an awkward pesition, but would not sacrifice the in sts of the country, nor did they wish to sacrifice the principles of Responsible Gov't. and no one regretted more than he himself the issue before them. He took it that the Ministry alone were to blame in the whole matter; two of them voted and spoke longer and stronger in favor of the measure than any other member, and, he asked, was this not a house divided against itself, the result of which everyone understands. In order that the Government of the country may be allowed to proceed, he would ask for an indefinite postponement of the matter at issue; was it not for this, they would show whether the representatives of the people or one man should rule. [Hear.] Mr. Armstrong next the District of Lake, in Victoria District. alluded to the Ministry as having been supa part of them were passed.

Hon. Attorney General regretted on behalf would be convinced of its importance. of himself and colleagues, that that they led hon, members to suppose the question would duct of theirs had led to such a belief; he dinance, 1870." would say also that a pressure of business in the hands of the Government members, pre- time; second reading on Monday next. vented a consideration of the position, and Standing Orders, but be must remember, said at Ottawa. the Hon Attorney General, this requires an unanimous vote and they might easily have prevented the suspension of the Rules, and the res o for not doing so was because they could at any time repeal the Standing Orders. The Ministry would never deviate from the bill, and if they did not possess the confidence of the House, bon members knew the course to pursue. Applause in the gallery.

The Speaker said be would have to clear open for debate. motion before the House.

The Speaker replied that there was no Mr. Booth rose to a question of privilege He did not wish to be executed before being tried, nor to be condemned before being beard; the public mind is much exercised over the matter, and he wished to set himself right on the question at issue; no man, ex-cept he were insane could run counter to it. He blamed no one with regard to the position they were placed, for no one had led him to take the part he had taken in it; the opinion he had expressed was his own. Mr. Booth would go back to the constitution Acts of the egislature; they had already dealt with them and were not bound by them. The question of members taking their seats at the commencement of the session, when the Attorney General rode over the Constitution Act, he (Mr. Booth) referred to as a case in point; the question of the Civil List, etc, was setasine, as well also theracts, and had passed away. The speaker next remarked, that the public prints handled the question in a masterly style : it was hardly safe at an, time to wrestle with newspaper editors, for they were always sure to get the better one way or another. In the STANDARD of the 15th was an able article, wherein the mem bers were represented as Fenian raiders, etc, the chain gang was hinted at ; it was strange how good tempered they all kept under it. Next, he referred to the first sitting of the House when the discussion on the Standag Rules was before them, and when it was a first time; second reading on this day intimated that it was intended week. ity; it was brought up at the proper time and in an orderly spirit; no doub, on the outside it was looked upon in a different light. Every one should know it is necessary is a measure of the sort, that a settled amount must be set down, and in Committee this sum is discussed, and it is in the power of the Mouse to reduce it to a proper amount. As to the constitutionality of the course, he quoted from the B. N. America Act, main-taining the course was constitutional. Now, one class takes the stand that only the Governor in Council must deal with the question; he didn't interpret it in any such manner theirs (the House) was only a recommendation; they thought it proper and they asked it, and they had a right to ask for it, and it was for the Ministry if they thought proper, to reject the measure. Mr. Booth touched upon the justice of the case. If they had eason to believe that members were serving the county at a loss, then the Governmen had not done wisely to force the question was it prudent or statesmanlike? or does it some well from gentlemen drawing 121 dols. a day and 5 dollars a day besides for sitting in the House? or from gentlemen having all the legal talent in the country on their side of the House? He would like to know how be hon. Attorney General is responsible to his (Mr. B.'s) constituents; if any hono able gentleman is afraid to go to his constituents on the question, the sooner they get up and get out of the scrape the better. If gentlemen who voted and supported this on a former ccasion, should now choose to eat humble pie, they were welcome to it; he still held that his tongue should cleave to the roof of he would not recede from his position one inch. [Hear, hear.] Mr. Booth delivered a very clever and masterly speech, and we are ery clever and masterly speech, and we are our we are unable to do it justice. Mr. J. P. Booth also rose; he hadn't be-

same time he was in favor of postponing the Dr. Ash gave notice that persons of color question until the next se sion, in order to be summoned by the Sheriff to serve on juries get the public opinion upon it; it was the in this Province. engaging in many pursuits which were open to the public; he believed the public wished to properly indemnify honorable gentlemen, and if they did not, he, for one, would abide the issue. He would support the moion for a postponment.

Mr. Humphreys held it was not advisable that not one of the seventeen gentlemen who and voted for the resolution, should sit silentby without saying something on it. The linistry were to blame, and their action ieminded him of one of Walpele's letters to Horace Man, wherein he stated, a Ministry was composed of a gentleman, a fanatic, two comedians and any number of knaves; history, in this instance, repeats itself. Their action could not be defended; had the Attorney General expressed on opinion against the measure when it was brought up, e was quite certain there would have been go opposition from the House. The question as assumed another aspect now altogether t is, whether the representatives of the people shall govern, or whether the Hou Attorney General shall The course of the Ministry was inexcusable; he was glad the hon. member (Mr. Armstrong) moved the postponement of the is-ue, and was glad it was dropped, and as men to go on and do the business of the country. Mr. Beaven opposed the second reading of the bill. He did not think that naval and the strength of the securities was post-poned.

It was then agreed that the bill be read a military gentlemen should be entitled to privileges more than other settlers. He would move that the bill be read a second time this day six months.

Mr. Duck seconded Mr. Beavan's motion. Mr. Buaster rose to support the second reading. He thought the bill would not injure other settlers; that military gentlemen coming here after serving twenty or thirty years in the army, would not make very good settlers, and would make very good farmers for the actual settler to pluck. He did not think that the actual settler would be injured in the least.

Mr. Beaven's amendment was lost, 4 for-Messrs. Beaven, Armstrong, Duck & Hughes. The bill then passed the second reading and was committed, Mr. Robinson in the chair. C. FRANCIS BARNARD, M.D. SURGEON DENTIST. BURGEON DENTIST.

DR. BARNARD HAS had for SEVERA months the "Perkins Hyatt" or "Celluled Rase," the newest and latest material adapted to the mounting of whole sets of teeth; he is also using "Whalehone Rubber," which is rapidly supplanting, feelingle dentures or partial sets, the best vulcanites of the as: 2b years.

We cheerfully add Dr. B's Card to our columns, convinced that his good taste and judgment, united to matural skill and ingenuity, aided by an extensive practice of upwards of chirtly years, render his aervices more valuable and reliable than those of any other dentist on the Sound, Coast or Island.
